

Fuxi Electric Power Generating Company Launches Promotional and Educational Activities on World Environment Day

In order to strengthen employees' environmental awareness, Fuxi Electric Power Generating Company, which operates under China Power, launched promotional and educational activities on the 48th World Environment Day on 5 June.

The company promoted environmental protection through online platforms such as WeChat groups and corporate website; played promo video and theme song of the World Environment Day in the public area; organized employee signature campaigns and held up promotional posters; arranged inspection of plants. These activities cultivated a workplace that encouraged employees to learn more about the World Environment Day and environmental protection.

The company has strictly complied with relevant regulations of authorities and local governments. Based on the actual situation, it has actively initiated transformation of machines to enable low emissions, and implemented anti-pollution measures. Its efforts were appreciated by authorities and local governments.
