

China Wireless Ranked among the “Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific” for the Sixth Consecutive Year

Demonstrates Strength in Business Development over the Past Six Years

(Hong Kong, 3 December 2010) – China Wireless Technologies Limited (“China Wireless” or the “Company”) (Stock Code: 2369), China’s leading provider of integrated wireless data solutions and smartphones, announced the company has been ranked 183rd in “Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific 2010”, a proof of its strength in business development. With a 2007-2009 CAGR of 209%, the company has been selected for the sixth consecutive time with a significantly higher ranking than that of the previous year.

“Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific” is considered as an authoritative benchmark for high-technology companies across the region, aiming to explore and give recognition to the top 500 rapid growing high-technology companies with vigorous business activities for their contribution to the industry. The selection is based on the company's operating revenue and the revenue growth rate over the past accounting years.

Mr Guo Deying, Chairman of China Wireless, said, “[Being included/Inclusion] among the ‘Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific’ for six consecutive years is definitely important recognition of the long term sustained development of China Wireless. I would like to thank all the staff of the company for their hard work. Looking forward, we will continue to invest in our technology and R&D, to [better prepare/get ready] to capture the opportunities for the rapid development of the 3G mobile telecom and smartphone markets, thereby leading China Wireless to another record achievement.”
